

ANSCA HOMES GETS WARM AND FUZZY BY HELPING KIDS AND PETS IN 2008

When it comes to giving back to the communities it serves, Anasca Homes, one of South Florida's oldest and most respected builders, has a soft spot for helping kids and pets in need. That's why at Anasca's Annual memorial Day Event, the company chose to host some very special guests: the homeless pets of the Peggy Adams Animal Rescue League.

Helping these wonderful pets find new homes was followed closely by aid to people on June 4 with a $5000 donation to the American Red Cross, raised by caring individuals participating in a very successful bikeathon. Anasca considers the American Red Cross to be the epitome of what communities can and should do for its members, and was honored to come through for this venerable organization at a time when donation dollars are getting harder to find.

But perhaps no Anasca donation can match the joy the company feels during its Third Annual Toys for Tots drive. This year Anasca Homes volunteered to become a drop off location for Toys for Tots and Anasca's corporate office in Boynton Beach received quite a collection of new toys which will be distributed all over South Florida to needy children. The United States Marines in the area distribute these shining new toys to needy children from the Toys for Tots program to help spread the spirit of the holiday season and give hope to these children. Anasca would like to thank friends, family and all those involved in making this year's drive a great success story.

The philosophy at Anasca Homes is to unite the family of employees to reach out to the community and gives something back to those less fortunate. Anasca Homes takes great pride in giving back to the community. According to Anasca Homes' Elizabeth Nero, "We'd like to look back and know that we, as a family, made a difference not only in our South Florida communities, but also throughout the world." She continues, "We believe that there's no better way to take care of our world than to take care of the most vulnerable members of our communities – children, pets and people in crisis."
